The Holy Father visited the chapel alone to not only enjoy the new lighting recently installed, but also to have a few moments of prayer, reported the Sismografo. In addition to being Christmas Day, 25 th December was a special day for Francis for another reason: it was the anniversary of his Baptism. He mentioned this recently, on a 14 th December visit to a Roman parish, where he spoke to a group of families with recently baptised children: "I should be somewhat curious to ask a question, but I won't do so Or I will do so, but I won't ask for an answer How many you know the day of your Baptism? ← Continued from above (Pope Francis: Amid Deceptions of World, We Must Continue to Ask Where is the Star?)

...God's criteria is quite different from those of men. God "does not manifest himself in the power of this world, but speaks to us in the humbleness of his love."

"What is the mystery in which God is hidden? Where can I find him?" he asked.

There is Jesus in all the realities of today, Francis responded, particularly in those who are enduring difficult situations, such as war, trafficking, and exploitation.

"The crib points us to a different path from the one cherished by the thinking of this world," he said, for "it is the path of God's self-abasement, his glory concealed in the manger of Bethlehem, on the cross upon Calvary, in each of our suffering brothers and sisters."

The 78-year-old Pontiff also said that the conversion of the wise men happened when they passed from human calculations to the mystery. He also exhorted the faithful to examine their own conversion and told them to ask God "to protect and to set us free from the temptations which hide the star."

Amid the deceptions of this world, the Pope said, we are to always feel the need to ask "the troubling question: "Where is the star?" whenever we lose sight of it.

The Pope expressed his hope for all faithful to know ever anew God's mystery, and "not to be scandalized by the 'sign' which points to 'a babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

In addition, he called on those present to find the courage "to be liberated from our illusions and presumptions" and "to seek an encounter with the Light," just like the Wise Men.

Word of God renews our hearts

After the Mass, Pope Francis appeared at the window of his study in the Apostolic Vatican Palace to pray the Angelus with those gathered in Saint Peter's Square.

During his address before the prayer, the Pope stressed how the Magi's experience evokes the journey of every man to Christ. Christians, he said, must seek God, just as the Magi did, which requires "fixing our gaze on heaven and seeing in the visible sign of the star the invisible God who speaks to our heart."

The star that is able to guide every man to Jesus, he said, is the Word of God, which is the light that "directs our path, nourishes our faith and regenerates it," and "constantly renews our hearts."

"We must not forget to read it and meditate it every day," he stressed, "so that it becomes for each one of us a flame that we carry within us to guide our steps and also those of one who walks beside us, who perhaps finds it hard to find the way to Christ."

the gifts of others without losing a sense of one's own giftedness. Recall times when you were able to do this.The baptism of Jesus was an extraordinary religious experience for him. Something happened that was a major step forward for Jesus in coming to know that he was the beloved Son of God. We all have events in our lives that are milestones along the road of discovering who we are. What have these been for you?

3. 'You are my Son, the Beloved; with you I am well pleased.' Bring to mind memories of experiences in which you knew you were the beloved (of God or of another person) and that the one who loved you was well pleased. Bring these experiences to mind with gratitude, knowing that the only proper response to love received is thankfulness. Perhaps you have also given that experience to another.

4. Let the symbols in the story speak to you:

a) the heavens torn apart;

b) the Spirit coming down;

c) a voice speaking from heaven.

All suggest that barriers between God and us are no more and God is reaching out to us. When have you had that experience of the closeness of God: perhaps watching a sunset, hearing bird-song, or in prayer?
